Book Cloth 1859, 2023 (8 x 12")

34. 'Inspired by old books from my parents' childhood, I stripped the covers of linen and cloth from these antiquarian books and juxtaposed them to create unique pieces of art. I have used the cloth and linen as both palette and canvas and left the original covers untouched, in their natural raw state. Close inspection can reveal a faded printed word and all of the pieces have a former life and story to tell. Thank you for the support Caroline. Est Value: €750

Artist - BRIAN HARTE

61. “The Stranger” Acrylic on Canvas
Spending time with Brian’s work can be like stumbling on an evolving story, and it is intriguingly unclear as to whether we have arrived at the aftermath of an event, or if we have caught the action at an indeterminate, yet possibly pivotal point. A deceptive simplicity haunts his prints, as initial impressions are immediately interrupted by the teeming ideas that await within the confines of his frame. Brian’s expert handling of colour allows strong and primary shades to be underscored with the grace notes of more muted hues, and in this, as in their composition, they can be an inordinately accurate reflection of life as it is well lived.
